Regarding Road Rules

In response to several enquiries respecting the right of wrong side of the road or street, or of a motor vehicle should travel or stand upon, it is explained that such persons driving shall keep to the right of the centre of the road. For example, if they are travelling west, they shall keep to the north side of the road, and if travelling east, they shall keep to the south side of the road. If the rig or motor vehicle is left standing it shall be on the right hand side of the road or street facing the direction in which it is to be travelling.

In respect to rigs or motor vehicles passing one another on the public highway, the Provincial Highway Act states as follows:—
"If a vehicle driven by a horse or horses or other draught animals or a motor vehicle be overtaken by any motor vehicle, and the driver of the charge of such motor vehicle expresses a desire to pass, it shall be the duty of the driver of such vehicle to overtake as soon as it is practicable to turn to the right of the centre of the travelled portion of the highway, and give the person so making the request an opportunity to pass; but, in passing the person in charge of such motor vehicle and the other male occupants thereof over the age of fifteen years shall give such assistance as they are able to the occupant or occupants of the vehicle, as assistance be asked, and in this passing the driver of the motor vehicle shall use all care to avoid accidents."

No male person under the age of 15 years and no female person under the age of 18 years shall drive or operate a motor vehicle upon a public street, highway, road, park or driveway.

FATAL AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Miss Cora Lake Is Killed By Being Thrown From a Car Just South of City on Saturday Night

A fatal accident occurred just south of the city, between the south crossing and the bridge across the creek, east of the track, on Saturday evening last between Miss Cora Lake, of Wetaskiwin, and a motor car, owned by Walter Greiner, of Wetaskiwin, which was driven by Walter Greiner, who was in charge of the car, and who stated that he was in his 15th year, said that he and Miss Lake were driving south on the highway, when the car was struck by a car driven by Matt Johnson, who was returning to his home in the country, and they were thrown from the car and killed.

Walter Greiner, who is 15 years of age, had been driving the car after supper and was asked by the girls to take them for a ride. They drove around on the highway, and when they were driving on the highway, they were overtaken by a car driven by Matt Johnson, who was returning to his home in the country, and they were thrown from the car and killed.

How About Hockey?
The time is fast approaching when we should be lining up the material available for a hockey team to defend Wetaskiwin honors this winter. There appears to be material enough in town to make a good team, perhaps a little better than we have had in previous years. The only one of last year's team who will not be playing with Wetaskiwin so far as is now known, is Gordon Wilkins, and an effort should be made to get the star goal-tender of former seasons back to Wetaskiwin for a winter at least. Then another player, Frank Herle, who did not appear in the game last year on account of being in the old country, is likely to be here this winter, so that the chances are good for a winning team this year. The value of a hockey team to a city like Wetaskiwin cannot be overestimated, as the advertising resulting from such an organization cannot but do material good to the city. Why not call a meeting and re-organize to make the season of 1915-16 the best Wetaskiwin has ever had?

Letter from the Front

No. 4 Coy, 2nd Battalion, 1st Canadian Contingent, October 5, 1915

Dear —
I have just received your very welcome letter of September 12, and I am pleased to hear you are all well. We are also having a touch of fall weather at present. It is raining hard and is slightly cold but we have had no snow as yet. I have had the pleasure of seeing a number of Wetaskiwin boys lately, the ones in the 31st Btl, also have seen Murphy, who worked in B. T. Williams' shop. When Sid-Burns came over to see me, it took me about a minute to recognize him! It sure is queer to be running across old friends out here. At the rate they claim the boys are enlisting over there it looks as though they will be all at the front post soon. They have created a large Y.M.C.A. tent here, and hold concerts quite regularly. The Y.M.C.A. is doing a lot of good work here. I sure would like to get a crack at some of those ducks you report to be so plentiful, but then I suppose I must be contented with an occasional pot shot at the enemy and they are few enough these days. Oh, we had a feed of corn on the cob for dinner, well, how we landed it is a story by itself—no land.

Addie Viau.

When you've finished making bandages, and through with knitting socks, When you've done your bit for China and Japan; Will you kindly drop a dollar in the missionary box, For another, who's a "brother and a man." He ain't no "bally heathen" and he ain't no "Planter Satan." But he likes his pipe, the same as you and I; Perhaps it's wrong to want it, and then perhaps it ain't, That's a matter we can settle by and by.

Tommy isn't at a picnic, and he isn't at a dance. But where he may be he likes his joke. And the other day he wrote me from place "Somewhere in France," That "the only thing he wanted was a smoke." And he said "the shots were humming just like a swarm of bees, And the shrapnel shells were singing overhead, And the gases they were floating along upon the breeze, And the stench was just delightful," so he said.

"For it reached right up to Heaven," he could cut it with a knife; That's the time," he says, "that eating was a joke. But the One fly in the ointment of this 'sweet pastoral life' Was, he'd like to have, the making of a smoke." So I put it to you plainly, just as pal to pal, And I'm going to give it to you good and strong; Tommy sends—TO YOU—a message out of that infernal hell. Are you going to keep him waiting very long—Bulletin.

WHAT IS THE NET

PRICE OF GRAIN?

Now, in part, it is true that dealers have quoted lower prices than they began to be assured, but we must not conclude that grain traders made the prices they quoted. Values of grain or any other commodity are determined by the willingness of consumers or users to buy, and the value of which they will exchange for such goods. In determining what they will give for grain consumers are guided by the chances of getting what they want. When they see a full supply they will not offer as much as when the market is nearly empty. With what the surplus consuming public is in Europe and the amount the European consumers take from other parts of the world is approximately 12,000,000 bushels a week. When Europe sees this much wheat in sight but traders, feeling the influence of the purchasing public on one side and the producing public on the other, will adjust quotations to harmonize these influences. A price for grain is a simply that amount, which the average judgment of a large number of people determines is worth. Producers help to determine this judgment by their willingness to sell and consumers by their willingness to buy. With low stocks in sight from the 1914 crop consumers showed a willingness to buy and sent up prices. This willingness found expression in the action of housewives laying in flour and beans for a month's supply. Now with heavy supplies of goods in sight consumers are indifferent to their future needs. For months we have been trying to tell Europe that we have "a whole lot of crop" coming in, and the climax to this boast was the conference of the Calgary Board of Trade at which Europe was notified that they have so much wheat that they can buy it for less than the cost of production. We in America have told the consumers in Europe that we will have a surplus for export of approximately 60,000,000 bushels, or enough to supply their needs for almost a year without any assistance from Russia, India, South America, or any other exporting country. That's why we have low quotations.

But Liverpool, so getting let us say 1.50 a bushel. By the time this gets into the hands of the readers it may be more or less, while the producer in western Saskatchewan or Alberta sells around 70 cents. The wide spread, much wider than in normal times. The explanation of the wide spread is that charges for insurance on ocean passages have gone up—ocean ship space is higher by our times, the value of British banking paper is less and the charges for lake transportation is higher due to an increase in demand to handle not only our crop, but the United States' grain crop and ore. The higher cost of insurance is, of course, directly traceable to the fact of enemy submarines. The increase in boat demand is due to the British government's requirements for ships to carry troops and army supplies from all parts of the world to centres where men are located. Boat space is a commodity that is dealt in just as is grain or cotton. An exporter of grain does not necessarily arrange with a steamship line directly for space. He may do that, or he may arrange for space with a broker who has space to sell. These are the real regulators of ocean freight rates. They compile lists of different kinds of space that may be had on tramp boats and offer it for sale to exporters, or they accept orders for certain ports to supply the space. Space is scarce this year and consequently high. True, a community of interests with respect to ocean transportation contributes to arrangements as to freight charges on certain classes of goods, but in normal times there are so many independent owned ships, tramps, that rates for such commodities as grain, lumber, and all classes of non-perishable heavy freight tend to always approach the cost of service.

The cost of doing business this year with Europe is too high for reason of the payment for goods sold, one nation to be delivered in another is largely a process of adjusting credits. Europe does not send so much money to Canada to buy wheat. The exporter loads his cargo and draws upon the individual or firm in the foreign country to whom the shipment is assigned. The draft may then be banked and credit given the exporter. But the draft is not worth its face value, the cost of financing it through the banks and getting it credited in the country upon which it is drawn must be taken off, and the difference between the value of the receiving country's money in terms of our money adjusted. At present the value of British money in America is low because America has so much of it, and so much money is coming, that the supply constitutes a liability; a responsibility. Simply a case of a large supply making a commodity cheap. These drafts then being worth less than their actual face value makes the returns from them less and consequently the real value of wheat that they represent is less. At present the charges for exchange amount to approximately 8 cents per bushel of wheat.

We have therefore pronounced influence depressing the price of wheat, first, a supply in America sufficient to supply the normal demand of the consuming market for a year, high cost of transportation and insurance and a lessened value of the medium of exchange which we accept in payment for our grain. The remedy proposed in some quarters is that the British government, that is, the consuming public, buy one crop or a portion of it, at an arbitrary price, higher than that prevailing in the open market; another is that the British government buy a large portion of the crop at market prices, so that the overhead might be taken up; another is that the British government release ships to transport grain across the Atlantic so that the freight rate may fall; and that the British government take the necessary steps to establish the full value of their currency in America so that drafts will not be so heavily discounted; and the last is that producers hold back that our own financial institutions assist in the demand. Fortunately some of these suggestions are recognized as being in the nature of remedies. Sir Robert Borden has assured us that ships will be available to us to carry our crops, improvement in the value of British notes is taking place, insurance should come down with the apparent weakening of the submarine menace, and European exporters are taking on considerable quantities of Canadian wheat. But producers must hold back every possible bushel of wheat even though that means storage for two years. The depressed price, this year, will mean a lessened production in the near future and consequently a better price for those who can afford to hold.—Lacombe Globe.

NEW AND VALUABLE STOCK

FEED

The government elevators at Port Arthur, Moose Jaw, Saskatoon and Calgary are equipped with up-to-date cleaning machinery and facilities for grinding and bagging by-products of grain elevators. The grain dockage is reclaimed to remove the weed seed chaff and dust and then ground to destroy the vitality of all seeds. The results of feeding experiments at the Ottawa experimental farms have shown this mixed grain meal to be a cheap and valuable feed for live stock. It is now available to Canadian feeders and feed dealers in car lots at moderate prices. Prospective purchasers should apply direct to the General Manager, Government Elevators, Port William, Ont.—Seed Branch, Ottawa.

Her Baby Had Dysentery.

Had Two Doctors. No Result.

WAS CURED BY THE USE OF

DR. FOWLER'S
Extract of Wild Strawberry.

In dysentery the discharges from the bowels follow each other with great rapidity, and sometimes become mixed with blood.

Never neglect what at first appears to be a slight attack of diarrhoea or dysentery will surely set in. Cure the first symptoms by the use of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

Mrs. Martin Farmer, Dogberry Corner, N. N. writes: "I can very truly recommend Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for dysentery and summer complaints. My little girl, at the age of two years, had the dysentery very bad. We had two doctors, but with no result. My mother brought me a bottle of Dr. Fowler's, and when half the bottle was used, the little girl was running around playing with her dolls with great delight and joy to the family, for we did not think she would ever get better."

There are a number of preparations on the market to-day, claiming to be the same as "Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry" and also called similar names, so as to fool the public into thinking they are getting the genuine.

"Dr. Fowler's" is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. See that their name is on the wrapper.

STORIES OR FACTS—WHICH?

To the Editor of The Times: Dear Sir—Please allow me space in your valuable paper for the following statement.

During the last twenty-five years or more, I have read and heard rumors and stories of the English policy in a "gun-slinging" manner. I have heard of the "inferiority" and "recklessness" of the English people compared with other nations and how England is "oppressing and taxing her colonies." As such tales have a disturbing influence upon the feelings of the foreign born people of this country, I consider it to be my pleasure and duty to write down some of my experiences with the English people and also name of the knowledge I have gained from history about English politics and give the facts to the public.

In the summer of 1874 I worked for an English gentleman in the northern part of Sweden. The name of the place is Neder Kalix. In 1875 I worked at the Atlas railway shops at Stockholm, making wheels for railway cars. An Englishman was in charge of the work and the foreman had studied in England. Later on I studied English from English teachers. The last year I was in Sweden I served as an interpreter for an English colonel who traveled as a tourist. I have only fifteen years memory from my acquaintance with the Englishman in my own country. I never heard anything but good spoken of England when I was in Sweden. When I came to the United States and resided in Chicago I took sick and an English passenger-born in England—visited me and asked if I and my wife needed any coal for the stove or anything to eat. He offered us money but I four years in South Bend, Ind., and there I was a member of the presbyterian association, and when I lived Minnesota I was a member of the Baptist State Convention. I have met many English born preachers and they have all been very kind to me more so than preachers of my native people. Since I came to Canada I have met some of the leading men of the country and also working for and with English people. I may frankly say that I have never seen any inferiority or recklessness of the English man than of any others. If a person comes from London, England, or from Stockholm Sweden, to this country or from Barlin, Germany, he may say like they in Boston that "Cove blow their own horns." The work on a farm here is different from that on a farm in England and I have seen work on a frame building different from work in a lumber camp, etc.

Now in regard to the colonies I may say that I have friends who have been in India for many years.
They have told me about the conditions of that country, but never complained about the government. A short time ago a Swedish missionary who has been in India for many years spoke in the Lutheran church here. I asked him about the conditions in India and the Englishmen's doings there, and he said "The English government is doing good to the people." About thirteen years ago I was in Duluth, Minn., and there attended a preacher's congregation. The subject for discussion was a story in the newspapers about England shipping young girls from India to South Africa for purposes of prostitution. All the preachers were surprised when I mentioned it in the room and said "Gentlemen, I have just come from India. I have been there about twelve years under the British flag. We missionaries read about these things in the newspapers and made an investigation before I left. I can as-surely say that the story is a black lie."

Now when has England done for Sweden? The Swedish history tells us that England has given Sweden the start in the clothing industry by John Aström, that the first railway was built by an Englishman that Sweden sent to England for the steam-boat builder, Mr. Owen.

Many Troubles Arise From Wrong Action Of The Liver.

Unless the liver is working properly you may look forward to a great many troubles arising such as biliousness, constipation, heartburn, the rising and scurrying of food which leaves a nasty taste in the mouth, sick headache, jaundice, etc.

Mr. English Newcomb, Pleasant Harbor, N.S., writes: "I have had sick headache, been bilious, and have had pain after eating and was also troubled with a bad taste in my mouth every morning. I used four vials of your Milburn's Liver-Liver Pills and they cured me. The best price I can give is not enough for them."

Milburn's Liver-Liver Pills are 25c. per vial, 5 vials for $1.00; at all dealers.
Sold direct on receipt of price by and that he brought with him a preacher, Mr. Scott, and through his preaching Pastor Rosen was converted, and through his influence Walstenström started the mission friends movement, which has now found its way to Wetaskiwin, New Sweden and Highland Park. The mission friends "out there" can trace their religious history back to the time when the Englishman Mr. Scott preached at Bedardhanagan, Stockholm, in the year 1835, and they have returned their thanks already by a good showing of loyalty to this land and of ability to cultivate the soil.

The Swedish history tells us of Napoleon, how he at Ulmet, in Northern Prussia, told Emperor Alexander of Russia that he could take Finland and Sweden, and we read also how plans were laid by these war lords to attack the countries from three sides. Alexander should attack Finland, Benadate, Napoleon general, should attack Sweden from Denmark, and the Prince of Augustenborg from Norway. The three armies should meet at Stockholm. Alexander took Finland, but Sweden was saved by the interference of the English fleet which bombarded Copenhagen and thwarted the plans laid at Ulmet. Sweden remembers England with gratitude.

The Swedish history tells us also about "Reformation." Two Swedes went Germany to study under Luther and when they came back with the new doctrine it was received with favor by the Bishop Laurentius Andre and King Gustav Vasa, and through the mark of the king, reformation started in 1527 at meeting held at Westeros. The reformation was called "Western Reformation" and "Western Ordination." During the thirty years war King Gustav Adolphus of Sweden went with an army of 16,000 men to aid the dispirited protestants in Germany.
During the time of Napoleon, the new Swedish King, Karl Johan formally Napoleon's general, went to Germany with an army of 30,000 and won the battle of "of nations" at Lepzig. So we learn from the Swedish history that Sweden has rendered help to Germany but Germany has not given any help to Sweden.
Germany knows that and have during the present war made strenuous efforts through Count Van Douglas, Dr. Sven Heden and Adrian Martin, to win Sweden over to her side, but the people are firm in their decision to keep out of the fight. Sweden remembers its loss in former years.
Now we turn to the history of Canada.

"United Empire Loyalists." The close of the revolutionary war brought a large increase of population to Canada. Many of the American colonies remained loyal to England during the struggle for independence and when the war was over these people found themselves looked upon with dislike and suspicion by their republican neighbors. So harsh was the treatment they received that the British parliament took pity on them and voted them a large sum of money in consideration of the losses they had borne by running loyal to the British crown. Besides this grant of money they were given valuable tracts of land in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and New England which is now known as Ontario.
It is said that over twenty-five thousand left the United States in 1784, and settled in the British colonies.
Of these ten thousand came to Upper Canada, settling chiefly around the Bay of Quinte, along the Niagara River, and the St. Clair.
Each U. E. Loyalist received two hundred acres of land free, so did each of his sons when coming of age, and each daughter when she married. They were given provisions for three years, in addition to clothing, tools, and farming implements.
Disabled soldiers and widows were also given land and received grants of land and aid for a time from the government.

Now these Loyalists have together with the French people of Canada worked out the program of liberty for the country, and the Germans have worked up the farmers' well.
The German immigrants from Europe number 39,371 in Canada.

How about the Boers?
I am not going to quote from an English or Canadian history. The Boers began their settlement of the Cape about the middle of the seventeenth century in the great days of Holland. During the French Revolution and again during Napoleon's ascendency the English took the Dutch colony under their protection. After the downfall of Napoleon the colony was ceded (not grabbed) by England to the Netherlands. The Dutch settlers refused to become recanted to the English rule. In 1836 a large number abandoned their homes and set out for the interior of the globe.
A great portion of the new comers were English speaking people.
They were excluded from any share in the government, although they made up two-thirds of the population of the little state and paid the greater share of the taxes. They demanded the franchise, but the Dutch refused to accede to their demand. The controversy grew more and more bitter until Kruger in 1859 declared war on England. Please remember that the Boers were only one-third of the population. They taxed the outlanders more than themselves. They have then no share in the government and beside this they refused the outlanders to have schools where the Boer war took place. They used the Kaffirs as slaves. They burned the missionary stations for Livingstone; they did not cultivate the soil to any extent, they were mostly ranchers and they were too poor to work the mines. When a person takes these things into consideration, the Boer war was not started from what some of the newspapers have made of it. In the year 1900 the South African Union was formed and now the Boers share the same rights as the Canadians. As a closing word I may call attention to the fact that the Grain Growers' Guild is holding up the social policy of New Zealand as more ideal than any Canada's and the United States New Zealand is also moving in a right direction, this paper says, let therefore the stories go with the wind and get hold of the facts.

Respectfully,
Orest Carlson.

FIRE AT BAWLF

About two o'clock on Monday morning of last week, another fire occurred at Bawlf, resulting in the loss of two buildings and most of their contents, to that the total loss would amount to fully $5,000, only partially covered by insurance.

It appears the fire started over the barber shop and pool room, in the building belonging to Carter Bros.
The latter owned part of the fixtures and was fairly well insured.
The other building was built known as the old Bawlf hotel, but had been moved from its original location to Main street and was used as a storage and rooming house by a Chinese. The building belonged to B. B. Elliott, who lives near Bawlf, and was worth $2,000, covered by insurance. The Chinaman's loss was about $500, with no insurance.
The village has no fire fighting apparatus sufficient to cope with such a blaze.

THE IMPORTANCE OF

Weed seeds made up 15 per cent of the total weight of a car of western flax. A sample representing over 25,000 bushels of wheat contained only 22.4 per cent by weight of pure wheat, the remainder being largely made up of weed seeds. Such are the statements contained in a pamphlet issued by the seed branch of the department of agriculture at Ottawa and that can be gratuitously had by addressing the publications branch of the same department.

The heads of the different sections into which the pamphlet is divided are: Composition of Screenings, "See of Screenings, Grinding, Screenings, Screenings in Feeding Stuffs, Flax seed Screenings, and Feeding Experiments." The last mentioned is a pamphlet made most thoroughly with cattle, sheep, swine and poultry and the conclusions reached are elaborately tabulated. The importance of proper screening to the grain grower, thrasher, miller and feed manufacturer is minutely detailed and a summary given, in which is set forth:

"That the material removed from grain at terminal elevators consists of shrunken and broken kernels of wheat, oats, barley, and flax, besides varying proportions of a very large number of weed seeds."

"That up to the present, most of the screenings from our terminal elevators have been exported to the United States, where they have been released and used in various forms in feeding live stock."

"That on account of the extremely small size of some, and the hard, flinty seed-coats of others, the complete pulverization of all of the weed seeds in screenings cannot be accomplished by an ordinary chopper. That screenings released over a one-fourteenth inch perforated zinc screen to remove the finer weeds (black seeds) may be satisfactorily ground by ordinary choppers, if a reasonable care is taken in the separation and grinding."

"That feeding stuffs manufactured from screenings, not properly released, sometimes contain thousands of vital noxious weed seeds to each pound. Such material should never be fed as it is liable to introduce weeds that entail the loss of thousands of dollars."

"That feeding experiments have proven that the black seeds are useless as feed and expensive as adulterants. Their admixture in any considerable quantity to other feed makes it unpalatable to all kinds of stock."

"That screenings without the black seeds may be fed freely to horses, cattle, sheep or swine, but it is more profitable to have such screenings composed of not more than 50 to 60 per cent of the total grain ration. Buckwheat screenings are especially valuable as poultry feed."

"That more attention to the cleaning of grain as it is threshed will save the cost of transportation to the terminal elevators, and will leave the grower in possession of much valuable feed which, if he does not need for his own use, will find ready sale among live stock men."

"That the growth of weeds entails an enormous loss each year to farmers, and while it is undesirable to not use everything in grain screenings of good feeding value, it would be better to burn them than to permit their use in ways that will bring about any increase in the number or distribution of noxious weeds."

SENSATIONAL MURDER CASE

ENDS IN ACQUITTAL

Edmonton, Oct. 15.—After three hours deliberation, the jury in the murder case against Stanley Woolard, charged with sending poisoned candy through the mails and causing the death of Ralph Fowler, this afternoon brought in a verdict of not guilty. Following the applause which followed the announcement of the verdict, the jury, the prisoner was discharged.

The most sensational evidence and that to which the judge in his charge attached the most importance, was that of the witness Bonner, who swore that at the accused's request one evening after supper at the Woolard's home he had written the address, George Foley, Straker, Alta., on a piece of paper for him. This the accused denied as an absolute untruth, denying that any such incident had ever taken place, while both the mother and father, who said that if such a thing had taken place they were certain to have seen it, both were equally emphatic in their denials. If Bonner's evidence was true, a strong case was established, said the judge.

The intended victim of whomsoever did send the atrocious coated chocolate was George Foley, but the man who did meet with death was Ralph Fowler. Most of the time the men connected with the tragedy are ranchers or homesteaders in the neighborhood and a local belle, who herself admitted that she had the reputation of a flirt, Dagmar Beupre, played a prominent part in the tragic events which occurred last June in the neighborhood of Lac Ste. Anne. The crown's contention was that the poisoning was the result of jealousy over the girl.

THE RED CROSS AND ## PRISONERS OF WAR

The appeal of prisoners of war has supplied a crucial test to the Red Cross ideals. The prisoner of war is in the hands of the enemy and there are of no military value. In the grim work of war public attention is directed to the combatants. The soldier who is fighting and assisting in the attainment of this military objective—the annihilation of the enemy, has primarily a superior claim on public generosity. It would not indeed be surprising if the prisoners of war were forgotten. To the undying honor of the population of the allied countries the prisoners of war has been a special object of Red Cross solicitude. The work of the Prisoners of War Bureau is enlarging every day.

All over Canada Prisoners of War Funds have been started. The Vancouver and Ottawa branches of the Red Cross have been successful in this enterprise. Thanks to these contributions the Canadian Prisoners of War Bureau in London is now in possession of funds to forward to the penniless Canadians in Germany. The central Red Cross at Geneva has verified the fact that the German authorities distribute these funds in accordance with international regulations. No one need scruple to give to this for fear that the contribution will not reach its destination.

The Red Cross bureau is in possession of a fairly complete list of Canadians interned in Germany. There may be delays, but eventually every prisoner of war is entered on the Red Cross list. Additional information comes through the bureau kept up at Berne in Switzerland by the British Red Cross.

The Red Cross is in this way lessening considerably the horrors of the war. It moves anxiety and mental distress from innumerable Canadian homes by supplying authentic information of imprisoned relatives. It mitigates the inevitable discomforts of the prisoners of war. It keeps him from fear of starvation, and by the vigilance, it deters German jailers from any tendency to brutality. The prisoners of war are in the worthy of generous support from every Canadian.

FIELD COMFORTS FOR SOLDIERS

Letters received from the front contain some very interesting information about the tastes and manner of life of our soldier representatives at the front.

The article perhaps in most demand and holed with its heartiest thanks by the recipients is a common domestic commodity which in times of peace no one but a humorist would think of as a welcome present. It is a box of soap.

When a soldier returns from the trenches plastered from head to foot with tenacious Belgian mud which hardens into a glass when it dries, his one object in life is to get clean. This operation requires plenty of soap and towels, and the government issue of both of these articles is very meagre. Consequently he greatly appreciates the soap sent to him in a box. Field comforts. Catholic soap is especially welcome, as it makes a splendid lather with the hard Belgian water.

Another field comfort which is particularly serviceable is a small tin of lime and acid drops which relieve thirst when the soldiers water bottle is empty. One officer expressed the opinion that such a box should be included in the emergency ration.

Now that the long winter nights are coming, candles are put on the list of immediate necessities. The government issue only 24 candles to 1024 men, which of course means that many would be forced to spend their nights in darkness were it not for Field Comforts from Canada.

Field Comforts fill a very real need and the public should continue to give a generous support to the National Service Committee and the O.W.C.A.
